

Historic Lineage of Fife College

1926

Buckhaven Mining School established

1951

Lauder Technical School becomes Lauder Technical College

1967

Cowdenbeath Technical College merges into Lauder Technical College

1970

Lauder Technical College moves to new campus on Halbeath/Pittsburgh Road (phase 2 in 1976)

1989

Lauder Technical College becomes Lauder College

2005

The colleges in Kirkcaldy and Glenrothes merged to become Adam Smith College

2013

Carnegie College and Adam Smith college merge to become Fife College

1899

Lauder Technical School founded in Dunfermline. George Lauder's vision, Andrew Carnegie's money.

1929

Kirkcaldy Technical School opened

1952

Buckhaven Mining School becomes Buckhaven Technical College | Fife Mining School becomes Cowdenbeath Technical College

1968

Kirkcaldy Technical School becomes Kirkcaldy Technical College | Glenrothes Technical College opened

1973

Merger creates Glenrothes and Buckhaven Technical College

1993

Kirkcaldy Technology College becomes Fife College of Further and Higher Education

2007

Lauder College changes name to Carnegie College

2024

Fife College celebrates its 125th anniversary

