JH Guild Forbo Flooring Systems Scholarship – Student Guidelines

What is the JH Guild Forbo Flooring Scholarship?

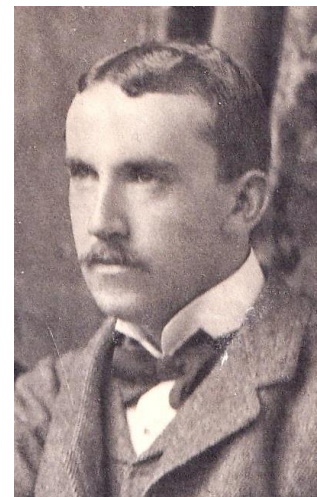

We are delighted to launch this scholarship for the second year, which is funded and supported by Forbo Flooring and the family of JH Guild. This exciting new scholarship will enable two students to travel fully funded to Forbo's Head offices in the Netherlands or England, to learn more about the design and manufacture of sustainable eco-flooring.

The family of JH Guild, who have been the catalyst in creating this opportunity and partnership, also support this scholarship with a financial payment awarded to successful students.

JH Guild

James Harrower [Harry] Guild (1871-1951) was born at Lindores near Newburgh, Fife. He attended Perth Academy and after university worked as a lawyer in private practice in Edinburgh. He became Chairman of the Board of Governors of The Royal Edinburgh Hospital for Incurables and the Liberton Hospital in the City, as well as sitting on the Boards of various major financial institutions based in Scotland, including General Accident, formed and for many years headquartered in Perth.

James purchased his first shares in Tayside Floorcloth Coy in 1914 and was on the Board for 20 years, helping to guide the company through the difficult years of the 1940s, serving as Chairman for 12 of those years. In 1946 he launched the company's Long Service Bonus Scheme in the Tayside Institute, which itself had been funded and built by the Company as a recreation club for its employees.

He was a keen photographer, angler and curler, being a member of Abdie Curling Club on Lindores Loch.

Forbo Flooring Systems

Kirkcaldy became the world centre for linoleum thanks to Michael Nairn, a canvas trader from Kirkcaldy who realised that floor cloth was a growing market. He borrowed £4,000 to set up Scotland's first factory of its type in his home town of Kirkcaldy in 1847.

Now known as Forbo Flooring Systems (previously known as Forbo Nairn) the company is still a leading global player – today it produces high-quality, commercial floor coverings in various sites across the world and to this day has a factory in Kirkcaldy.

Who Can Apply?

Full-time students at Fife College studying:

HNC/HND Furniture
HNC/HND 3D Design (interiors)

New scholarship 10 opens doors for Fife College Interior Design students

► Two Fife College interior design students have been named the first recipients of the new JH Guild Forbo Flooring Systems Scholarship, created to inspire careers in sustainable design.

Paige Flockhart and Emillie Ramsay, both studying HNC 3D Design (Interiors), have each been awarded £1,000. They have also benefitted from a fully funded visit to Forbo Flooring's head offices in England, an experience that has given them a unique opportunity to learn first-hand about innovative eco-flooring design and manufacturing.

Paige and Emillie were presented with their scholarship awards at the College's end-of-year Art & Design exhibition at the Rothes Halls in Glenrothes.

Paige, from Glenrothes, said: "I am so grateful to have received this scholarship. It will be an amazing experience and will help further my knowledge of the brand itself, and will be a great addition to my CV. I put the financial award towards a laptop to help me out with college work and to utilise in future education I may choose to take."

Emillie, from Kirkcaldy, said: "I am so excited and honoured to be awarded this scholarship. Not only do I get to visit the Forbo Flooring headquarters, a company I use a lot during my coursework, but I also receive £1,000, which will be a big benefit to my course."
